Herbs Rarely Damaged by Deer

The following herbs are considered generally unattractive to deer. However some deer are hungrier than others, and some seem to have sophisticated taste. Plants with pungent fragrance or fuzzy leaves are usually least attractive to deer. There are a variety of herbs that deer simply will not eat, no matter how tempted they may be. Herbs such as lemon balm and sage have a scent/flavour that deer tend to find unappealing, and can generally be grown safely without any fear of them loss. That said, some herbs are just as susceptible to being eaten by deer as any other plant.
